

Siro

Design Jouko Järvisalo 2001

Stackable chair with or without armrests

“Dainty” “Petite” “Slender” - translations of the Finnish word Siro, reflect both the structure and the design of the chair. Siro chair attracts attention with its construction and clarity. The lightness and flexibility of the seat is achieved with curved plywood. The material thins towards the edges and is strongest where solidity is needed for attaching the base and for the rigidity of the seat. The join of the metal parts with the wooden seat involves precise, careful work. In the chair, this detail serves as a sculptural eye-catcher, while also being a solution for joining the chairs in rows and for stacking them with ease.

Nippu table is an ideal complement to the Siro chair.
